Bard College Initiating External Degree Program

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON — In association with a group of other colleges, Bard is initiating a pilot program to test the feasibility of establishing the "University Without Walls" at the College.

The University Without Walls is an alternative plan for undergraduate work leading to a degree. It abandons the usual conception of a college education as four years in residence for 124 credits in class, laboratory, and studio work, and students enrolled in the program will do most of the work at home, while continuing with jobs and other responsibilities which preclude regular residential enrollment.

The program proposes that a student be permitted to progress toward a degree as his own pace with the guidance and tutelage of a faculty teacher/adviser, but without regular classroom attendance, and the emphasis is upon flexibility in meeting students' educational needs and goals.

A broad mixture of educational experiences, perhaps including but not limited to traditional courses at nearby college, independent study, telecourses, programmed instruction, videotape playback, special seminars on a college campus, internship programs, and so on, will make up the curriculum.

There are currently a number of groups across the country working on the concept of establishing external degree programs. Institutions developing University Without Walls units include Antioch, the University of Minnesota, Shaw University, New College in Sarasota, Florida, Goddard, Skidmore, Friends World College, the University of Massachusetts, Roger Williams, Bard and several others.

At Bard, the pilot program will admit 12 students, who must be over 23 years of age, and who must have had two years of successful college work or the equivalent. The usual fixed curriculum requirements will be dropped, and each individual's program will be planned with faculty committees.

Successful completion of the course of study will earn a University Without Walls degree and, at the discretion of the Executive Committee of the college, a Bard A.B.

Inquiries about the University Without Walls program at Bard may be addressed to Box 63, Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, 12504.

State Audit-Control Reports

Few Criticisms for Rhinebeck

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — The Village of Rhinebeck has received several suggestions from the New York State Department of Audit and Control in its most recent evaluation, but few genuine criticisms.

The audit, which covers a period from June 1, 1968 through May 31, 1970, notes that outstanding indebtedness increased during that period by almost $260,000 to a total of $1,166,100, but less than the village's constitutional debt limit.

Some of the criticisms contained included: the budgets were in accordance except they did not contain a schedule of wages and salaries for village employees.

"The village holds tax liens dating back to the 1957-58 fiscal year. The board of trustees should give consideration to the enforcement of the collection of these delinquent taxes."

The report suggested that receipts from parking meter revenues, which total about $2,500 annually, should periodically be reviewed by the board as the exact revenues could not be verified.

A village trustee, John Marks, is employed by the village as a janitor. The report said, "The appointment by the village board of one of its members to a position of employment is contrary to public policy."

The auditors carried on what Village Clerk Patricia Plim said was a continuing suggestion on "separation of accounting duties." At present, Mrs. Plim and a part-time assistant do all village accounting.

She explained to The Freeman that the same sets of auditing regulations are used for small and large villages and for cities, where a large staff makes it possible to separate duties to a much greater extent.

The auditors thought the board should give consideration to "a system of checks and controls conforming to accepted accounting standards."

Another remark was: "On May 31, 1970," the end of the village's fiscal year, "transfers were made between appropriation accounts and from surplus to cover budgetary overdrafts. Before an expenditure is made, or any contract which involves the expenditure of moneys entered into, an amount should be appropriated and, available for such a purpose."

And two minor comments: "Control records for water rents receivable were not maintained," and "An unidentified amount of money, part of which dates back to 1963, is included in Justice William Pollard's official bank account. The justice should make a determination as to the disposition of such moneys."

The report noted that real estate assessed valuation on taxable properties totaled $13,180,235 as of May 31, 1970 and the total assessed property, including tax exempt, was $18,884,314.

... Deficiencies in Ellenville

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE — The State Bureau of Audit and Control's report on its examination of the Village of Ellenville's bookkeeping was released this week. It wasn't good.

The bureau found deficiencies in about 14 areas of the municipal bookkeeping and one major area of the Urban Renewal Agency (governed by the Village Board wearing another hat.)

Village Manager Lawrence E. Eyres said these audits come about every three years normally, with this one covering four years, the period from June 1, 1966 to May 31, 1970. During that period of time, the village went through five managers, Eyres being the latest.

Major areas in which the bureau found deficiencies were:

—No bidding of over $1,000 in blacktop, over $1,000 in police uniforms, and over $2,500 in tree removal. Eyres said this was before his time, but he understood the uniforms were for the department's change over to its present uniforms, and the other two were accumulated expenses. He said he intends "to bid everything."

The $1,000 paid to Eyres predecessor, Paul Boucher, for accumulated unused vacation time.

There was no "resolution, ordinance, or local law" authorizing the board of trustees to do this. If they had passed such legislation it would have been all right.

—Only 25 per cent of parking tickets were paid. The bureau said many tickets were voided in the police department. Eyres said Chief William C. Trapnell, the village's present chief, has stopped this practice.

All money obtained from borrowing was put into one bank account, and the spending of it was not restricted to the specific use for which it was obtained. Also revenue anticipation notes were obtained without the specific revenue for redeeming them specified, and without revenue earmarked for the redemption.

—Certain salaries were split up into different funds in the budget, not placed under the General Fund, where they belonged. Eyres told the board this was illegal when he presented his budget for this coming fiscal year, and put the salaries where they belonged.

—Appropriations accounts were overdrawn. A municipality is not supposed to spend money from an account unless the money is there.

—No double entry bookkeeping, as specified by Municipal Law.

—No perpetual inventory of fixed assets.

—In the Urban Renewal Agency, the bureau said accounting procedures simply did not conform to those set forth in Part 60 of the Urban Renewal Manual.

Eyres, who came to the village in January 1970, and before whose time many of these violations occurred, said, "Those areas where the state audit has pointed out need for changes in procedure will be studied and changes made where necessary to conform. Many items cited have already been corrected."

The bureau also found that a check for taxes to the village in the amount of $600 had bounced, and the debt was not collected for three years. They said this was because of the bookkeeping system used by the village treasurer, Samuel Levis. Levis could not be reached by The Freeman for comment, but he has reportedly defended his single entry bookkeeping system as a means of saving the village money, and has said the Urban Renewal deficiencies noted by the bureau were "absolutely wrong."

Meanwhile, Ellenville State Police apprehended a Pennsylvania man who was driving a pickup truck on Route 209 with a number of antiques that authorities said were stolen from the Ulster County Historical Society building in the Town of Marbletown early this morning.

Kingston police booked Robert M. Everett, 24, and Ivra J. Allen, 38, both of Thompsonville, Conn., on charges of burglary third degree in connection with the Twaalfskill Club break-in. They were held pending arraignment in City Court.

According to authorities, Patrolmen Frank Kennelly and Lawrence Lohman stopped at the clubhouse for a routine security check. They reportedly discovered a broken window on the side of the building leading to the dining room.

Subsequently the police saw two men inside, and they entered and found the pair identified as Everett and Allen. Police said 10 bottles of assorted whiskey had been removed from the bar.

At 12:30 a.m. today, Troopers J. J. Hayes and Wayne Lawrence of the Ellenville State Police were on patrol on Route 209 near Stone Ridge when they stopped the driver of a pickup truck for routine traffic check. The driver was later identified as 29-year-old Bradley C. Oliver, of Mt. Home, Pa.

As the truck driver opened the glove compartment of the vehicle to get the registration for the truck, troopers spotted a can of Mace — a gas used

Pornography and Obscenity Are Debated in Dutchess

By TIM SCHUSTER

POUGHKEEPSIE

The place, if any, of pornography and obscenity in our society was debated Wednesday night by Dutchess County District Attorney Albert Rosenblatt, a New York author, and a Vassar art professor, in a session conducted by the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the New York Civil Liberties Union.

While wide variance in opinion were expressed, and members of the approximately 150 member audience asked questions and gave their views, some enlightening positions were well represented.

Linda Pommer of Vassar led off with her view that pornography should not be concerned with legal or moral aspects, but esthetics. She claimed that there is good and bad pornography, and it caters to special interest groups much the same as does science fiction.

"Pornography deserves to be considered an art form," she stated, saying there is "estimable and worthy" pornography. She explained that good and evil are introduced to the manner of writing and filming because "there is not much fun in sinning if it's considered wholesome" while the characters are largely essentially shallow so that any people can identify with them. "I think when we resolve our individual sex problems, pornography will fall into its place in a democratic society," she forecast.

DA Rosenblatt dealt primarily with the legal ramifications of pornography, noting that it does not constitute "more than two per cent" of his caseload but may be considered "delicate and important" nonetheless.

He said that our laws are largely the outgrowth of a puritanical background, and that the majority of people are shocked or offended to a greater or lesser degree by pornography, thus warranting control.

He pointed out that recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings have essentially restricted enforcement of pornography laws to cases dealing with children, as he contended that it would be "difficult to assume" any case where adult oriented pornography could be successfully prosecuted now.

The three guidelines set up by the Supreme Court are that material shall be judged obscene if it meets all of these requirements: it must dominantly appeal to prurient interest; it must offend community standards; and it must be utterly without redeeming social value.

Rosenblatt noted that Dutchess County has "surprisingly little activity in dealing with obscenity" as the smut business has not aroused local ire, nor have several movie theaters. He added that the practice of his office is to refrain from invoking criminal procedures because of a lack of decisive guidelines by the Supreme Court.

Richard Kuh, attorney, and author of "Foolish Fieglaves? Pornography In and Out of Court," was the most con-

The SST in U.S. — All But the Burial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the U.S. entry in the supersonic transport race, it was all over today but the burial ceremony.

The House, which only a week ago tried to breathe new life into the stricken SST, was administering the last rites early this afternoon.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan reluctantly concurred. "The Senate has acted understandably, if not wisely."

The Senate finished off the faint hopes of SST supporters in a 14-hour session that lasted until nearly midnight Wednesday. When the votes were cast, the SST had gone down for the third time this year in the Senate.

On a roll call of 58 to 37, the Senate approved a motion by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to delete $85.3 million for SST development from a supplemental appropriation bill.

The funds originally were included in the bill to be used to close out operations on the SST, but the house, in a surprise maneuver, amended the language to stipulate further development.

After passing the Proxmire amendment, the Senate then voted to return the $85.3 million to the bill, add another $70.5 million and restrict the total $155.8 million to termination costs for ending the SST.

The House was considering today a motion by Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., to concur in Wednesday night's Senate action denying further funds for the SST except for $155.8 million to settle the contracts.

Brydges Vows Abortion Debate

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A measure to repeal the state's new abortion law will be debated in the legislature, promises Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, although he says that chances for enactment are doubtful.

"Hasn't the governor said he would veto it?" Brydges said Wednesday in an informal chat with reporters. He also acknowledged that the Assembly leadership opposed repeal of the law.

Despite this, Brydges said, "it will be debated, but I haven't made up my mind when." Asked if it would be brought to a vote, Brydges replied, "I didn't say that" and declined to speculate.

The remarks were prompted by the introduction of Brydges of a measure to repeal the current law, which allows abortions to be performed by a physician, with the consent of the woman, in the first 24 weeks of pregnancy. Brydges wants to substitute the former law, which permitted abortions only when necessary to save the life of the woman. Brydges said the language in his bill was the same as that in a bill introduced by Sen. James H. Donovan of Chadwick, now bottled up in the Senate Codes Committee. Why a new bill?

"I'm identified with the repeal movement, too," Brydges said. Brydges also bypassed the Codes Committee and referred his bill to the Rules Committee, which he heads, and it was reported out for debate.

The measure was submitted during a busy day of activity for lawmakers as they worked to clear calendars of legislative proposals. Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea said the Assembly, and probably the Senate, could work through Saturday this week and try for adjournment of the 1971 legislative session by Memorial Day weekend.

In other developments: —The chairman of the Senate Insurance Committee, Bernard Gordon of Peekskill, expressed doubt that a no-fault form of automobile insurance would be approved by the legislature this year. This was disputed by Brydges, who said that something may yet be worked out. —Two Assembly bills to authorize sewer districts on Indian reservations were withdrawn from consideration after arguments they were worthless. "This is not going to benefit the reservations," Assemblyman Joseph M. Reilly of Glen Cove, head of the subcommittee on Indian Affairs, said in dissent.

"The Indians don't have inside plumbing. They have outhouses. So what are they going to do with a sewer district?"

—The Senate approved a bill that would provide the widow of the late Sen. Edward J. Speno, who died in February, the balance of his unpaid salary and expenses for the remainder of the year. The bill, which was sent to the Assembly, would give $19,200 to Mrs. Audrey Speno.

—Final legislative approval was given in the Assembly to Gov. Rockefeller's proposal to encourage the creation of comprehensive, pre-paid health care plans in the state. Under the plans, a subscriber pays dues, usually monthly, for unlimited visits to a physician and hospitalization if warranted without additional fee.

The Assembly voted Wednesday to allow municipalities to tax some non-profit organizations now tax-exempt, such as medical and dental societies, bar associations and foundations. The bill was sent to the Senate.

Deferred Tuition Questioned

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State University Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer indicated today that he has reservations about the "deferred tuition" plan before the legislature.

Boyer did not oppose the legislation. But he suggested that "several basic objectives" of present student aid programs should be taken into consideration.

He specifically cited the "maintenance of a broad-based financial assistance program, including direct aid to students," and affirmed the "continued recognition of the principle of low-cost public education."

Boyer also has said that the plan would give students "a higher education to reflect 'true sense of responsibility' for financing their own education."

In other words, Boyer raised the questions of whether the state was prepared to sustain scholarships and other student grants and to retain the comparatively low tuitions charged in the SUNY system.

The chancellor commented in response to an Associated Press inquiry into his feelings about a tuition Assistance Corp. and Gov. John Gilligan.

Earlier this year, the Empire State Chamber of Commerce, a major business organization in the state with the money New York, proposed a deferred tuition system that would have included higher tuitions at public and private institutions of higher education to reflect "true sense of responsibility" for financing their own education.

Under terms of his bill, the plan would be able to borrow up to $15,000 and make repayments over as many as 20 years after graduation. The plan would be tested experimentally outside the state. The chancellor presumably had in mind innovations at Yale and Duke universities and the deferred-tuition proposal made by Ohio State University.

New York, he said, could benefit from the results of such experiments. But Boyer refrained from going beyond saying that the information gathered in these cases would be helpful in considering proposed changes in this state.

WARDS CONVENIENT CHARG-ALL CREDIT PLAN

Fed Boss Rules Out Tight Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's top banker has ruled out a return to tight money at home as the way to boost the value of the beleaguered dollar overseas.

Raising interest rates to cure the dollar's weakened international position "would not meet our lasting needs at home or abroad," Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns said Wednesday.

Burns' statement closely paralleled thinking of Nixon administration economists who say economic expansion in the United States should not be sacrificed because of the recent dollar crisis.

But Burns' assertion carries more weight because the independent central bank he heads is responsible for the flow of money and credit into the economy.

The recent dollar crisis triggered some speculation the board would tighten the money supply, thus boosting interest rates and eliminating one of the main reasons for the dollar's erosion in Europe.

In recent months, the board has followed a sharply expansive monetary policy, driving down record-high interest rates dramatically. Nixon's economic recovery plans depend heavily on the central bank's treatment of the money supply.

Burns said a tough anti-inflation policy stands at the top of his list of ways to help the dollar internationally. "The overriding need is to restore price stability even as the present slack in our economy is taken up," he said. "I believe, with growing conviction, that a cogent incomes policy is a necessary part of the effort to restore price stability."

An "incomes policy" is economic jargon for all forms of direct government action to hold down wage and price increases. Nixon has edged closer to such a policy, but has not gone nearly as far as Burns wants. Burns, for instance, wants the President to establish a wage-and-price-review board but Nixon has rejected the idea.

Burns broke an official silence on the monetary crisis in his closed-door testimony before the Senate Banking Committee. Copies of his statement were released by the board.

Vols Convention Events Announced

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

Detailed arrangements for the annual Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention July 22-24 were outlined at Tuesday night's meeting held at Bloomingville Fire Hall.

Peter Zegel, general convention chairman for the three-day firemen's parley at Rosendale reported that the annual banquet and entertainment will be held Thursday night, July 22 at the Chalet at Rosendale. Tickets for members are now available and will be limited to the seating capacity of the restaurant.

The annual business meeting and election of officers will be held at St. Peter's School, Rosendale Friday night, July 23 and the firemen's parade will be held Saturday, July 24 at 4 p. m. starting at James Street, Rosendale. Zegel said 44 companies, 36 ladies auxiliary units and 31 musical marching bands have filed their intentions to participate.

Alan Tyler, chairman of the Trophy Committee reported that nearly 40 trophies will be awarded in various categories for parade participation. The categories include volunteer and auxiliary marching units, apparatus, bands, and a trophy for the oldest piece of fire fighting equipment still in service.

William Terry, chairman of the Banquet Committee announced prime ribs of beef will be served at the annual banquet.

Representatives of Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association led by Albert Belle Isle reported on the Hudson Valley convention to be held in Beacon June 17-19.

A letter regarding a course in firemanic training offered at Ulster County Community College was referred to County Coordinator Ray Morris Jr.

Morris in his county report noted that the state has made available 172 hours of firemanic training, most of which must be started by September to meet the limitation of funds.

The coordinator's report noted 1,749 radio calls logged at the Mutual Aid Center at Golden Hill. There were 218 fire calls; 6 mutual aid; 67 first alarms; 169 radio tests; 26 quick call tests; 24 Plectron tests; 90 civil defense tests; 46 emergency calls; 9 false alarms and 3 inter-county mutual aid calls.

Secretary Fred C. Harder reported the roll call listed 42 companies, represented by about 200 members were in attendance. Membership applications of Joseph Palumbo and James Raucii of Glasco Fire Co., were accepted.

The next meeting will be held June 15 at Saugerties Firehouse.

Charles Peterson, president of Bloomingville, the host company welcomed those in attendance.

The meeting adjourned in memory of the Rev. Albert Shultis, who was a life member of Active Hose Company, Rosendale; a life member of the County Association and chaplain of A.H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company, Kingston.

County Young Marines Will Register a First

KINGSTON: The Temple Hill Detachment, Ulster County Young Marines will be represented at the State Marine Corps League Convention scheduled to be held for three days in July at the Hotel Thayer, West Point, according to Gilbert E. Gray, commanding officer of the Young Marine unit.

The appearance of the unit will be the first time a youth group has ever appeared at the Marine Corps Convention.

Gray said that event will be the 40th annual convocation of the Department of New York Marine League, and it will open on July 8 and run for three days.

The purpose of the visit by the Young Marine units to the state session is two-fold. Gray said, first, it will give them the opportunity to take part in their parent group, the Marine Corps League, and secondly the appearance of the units will assist New York State Young Marine director, John Ray Mayone, in his efforts to encourage other detachments to sponsor Young Marine groups.

"This convention presents an excellent opportunity for many Marine Corps leaguers who have not seen young marines in action to observe a fine representative group present drills and demonstrations," Gray said.

The precision marching unit, trained and commanded by Vincent Ferraro, is recognized as one of the most popular units of its kind in the Mid-Hudson Valley area.

No Dollar Pearl Harbor

Leafing through the comments both at home and abroad about the state of the dollar since it was abandoned by West Germany and Holland while the mark and the guilder floated to their own levels on the money market, the statement of Nobel prize winning economist Paul A. Samuelson seemed to put the case for the dollar at its simplest.

The fluctuations on the European money markets is a "very good thing, not an economic Pearl Harbor," Samuelson said. "This is not a defeat for the dollar. This is very much in line with what I had hoped would happen. It is good for the dollar because, in my judgment, the dollar was overvalued. And it is good for the West German mark because in my view, the mark was undervalued. Both of them will benefit from the movement toward equilibrium."

Samuelson, though not in an official position, reflected the official view that, as the Treasury emphasized again and again, the U. S. is called on to play only a passive role in the current situation. It seems the market as adjusting in an orderly fashion to European decisions. No immediate action by the United States is called for.

The mark and the guilder are floating in technical violation of the fixed rate rules promulgated by the International Monetary Fund for the stability of currencies in the non-Communist world. IMF is resigned to the situation for an indefinite period. This period is determined by the money speculators who are pushing up the values of the mark and the guilder, which in turn depresses the value of the dollar in relation to them.

Treasury calm over the situation is due both to confidence in the dollar and the fact that European activity has given the dollar greater stimulus for increased American trade. Europeans will be able to buy more American goods with their money, which will increase American exports; and since we can buy less European goods with our dollar, there will be less imports. The more exports will create more productivity and thereby more employment. The less imports will mean a larger balance of trade in our favor. No wonder the Treasury is complacent.

Talented Being Wasted

The problems of the underprivileged, the undereducated—in a word, the underqualified—to find decent employment are bad enough.

But now it is the "overqualified," too, who are being forced to turn to the relief rolls.

"Overqualified" is, in fact, the word more and more professional people are hearing from placement services and company personnel officers, particularly scientists and engineers affected by federal cutbacks in defense and aerospace spending and the economic slump in certain industries.

They are "overqualified," they are told, when in desperation they apply for lower-paying jobs demanding lesser skills and education.

It is a predicament both for those looking for employment and for potential employers. If an "overqualified" person finds a lesser job, he can no longer devote all his time to seeking employment in his own field. And the man who hires him is fearful that he will leave just as soon as a better-paying job comes along.

It's as though a plug had been pulled on the economy, and a lot of talent is going down the drain.

"Hey—Which Way Are You Going?"

David Lawrence Says Trains Stopped Running Before Congress Took Action

WASHINGTON — Everybody in government knew a rail strike was coming, but Congress did not begin to take action until the trains actually stopped running and the main freight and transportation system of the country was paralyzed. The resulting delay in the mails and in delivery of food and all kinds of goods imposes a burden on private citizens and involves a loss of many millions of dollars.

Just why was Congress indifferent to such a contingency? And why are businesses forced to suffer such huge damages?

Anthony J. Obadiah, the labor relations manager for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, in a statement called the railroads "the heart of our commercial system" and urged Congress to bring the strike to a halt. He said the administration has been diligent in its effort to find a solution but "Congress has turned a deaf ear." He added: "It's time Congress started doing its job."

The consequences of the strike are reported in dispatches from all parts of the country. Many plants dependent on raw materials and parts shipped by rail were faced with the possibility of having to close down, with lots of workers being laid off. Commuters in the major metropolitan areas across the nation—particularly in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago—felt the effects of the rail strike. An official estimates that, after only one week, automobile manufacturing, chemicals, steel, meat packing and mining would be almost totally shut down.

Transportation Secretary

John A. Volpe has warned that the American people would have to prepare for a drastic change "in their way of living" if the strike continues. The Interstate Commerce Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board have been ordered to make all other modes of transportation available to move priority goods, including fresh eggs and milk, fuel to provide electric power and to heat residences and hospitals, medical equipment, pharmaceutical supplies, mail, essential defense materials and "items necessary to the continued smooth functioning of the financial system."

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson criticized the Union of Signalmen for refusing to settle for "some version" of the 42 per cent pay raise over 42 months already accepted by four other rail unions. He said:

"It is incredible that the half-million employees of the rail industry should find themselves out of work and that millions of Americans should be subjected to service disruption by this action taken by a union representing a relatively few employees."

Everybody knows that, with a rail strike of nationwide proportions, business in the nation is disrupted. Even though Congress adopts legislation ordering the strikers back to work, it may take several days for conditions to return to normal.

President Nixon has all along been urging Congress to act, and he hopes that Congress will pass the emergency legislation he has requested to halt the strike.

Gerald R. Ford, Republican leader of the House, says that the strike never should have been allowed to happen and that permanent legislation to deal with national-emergency strikes should have been enacted. Recalling that the President had outlined legislation which would serve as a basis for assertions that Mr. Nixon had faced up to his responsibility, Representative Ford declares:

"It is an indictment of the Democratic-controlled Congress that nothing is being done to deal with the almost annual strikes against the railroads except on an emergency order—back-to-work basis."

The administration and Congress have refused to deal with the fact that labor unions exercise monopoly far in excess of that ever possessed by corporations. The setting up of picket lines extends the scope of strikes, closing down many a business operation as other workers refuse to cross the lines due to a fear of what action might be taken against them by unions.

Congress has not tackled the problem of labor-union power in America, and this has become one of the biggest factors in the ever-rising costs in American industry. Today's recession is largely due to the organized efforts of labor unions to increase wages far beyond the scales that have prevailed before. The government could have stepped in with wage-and-price controls, but President Nixon declined to do so. This may turn out to have been the main reason for the failure in 1971 and possibly in 1972 to produce recovery and help America emerge from recession.

Nixon Agonizes to Exude Confidence on Television

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Preparing for one of his quite infrequent televised news conferences is a real agony for President Richard Nixon. The ordeal, and it is that, lasts at least a whole day.

He is not unique among presidents in taking time to prepare, to anticipate the questions he may get. But, more than others before him, he seems to feel the exquisite uncertainty of the conference drumfire.

He suffers some of this same discomfort as he makes ready for his visitors, even when their time with him is to be brief. He has no natural fund of small talk.

Earlier this year, he told aide H. R. (Bob) Haldeman one morning that he didn't want to see one group of men listed on his schedule. They were public officials with a national-minority background. Nixon had not had time to pack his social first-aid kit with appropriate trivial talk. (The visit was called off, only to be reinstated at the last minute and go surprisingly well.)

Things like this are not at all new to Nixon-watchers. He is an egg-walker, treading delicately upon the thin shells. He tries to make it look like a confident plunge, but most of the time it is seen for what it is.

He is intent on taking great care with the words he utters, yet too often what he says sounds careless. His quest for the right phrase may lead him into entangling thickets. Some of his intrusive comments about the controversial Calley case fit this pattern.

It is always said that "no one really knows Richard Nixon." Some men, though, know him well enough to grasp that he is not a broadly confident man and probably never will be.

The great pain of his life is that he chose fields of endeavor—politics and high public office—where displays of confidence are supposed to be worn like a uniform.

So, in the words of one man who views him sympathetically, "Nixon is always trying to project an image different from what he really is." And, sadly, in television's glare he is observed as he tries shakily to suggest confidence.

Against today's vivid backdrop of distrust for men in high places, Richard Nixon's inborn insecurity could prove critical to his prospects for reelection in 1972. Men who look and sound hesitant often are presumed to be lying and concealing. His potential primary opponent, the dovish Rep. Paul (Pete) McCloskey of California, says he is doing just that.

One party specialist is saying privately that, though

McCloskey probably could not unhorse Nixon in any important primary next year, he might here and there do better than anyone now imagines. The reason: He might serve as repository for the votes of the distrustful.

This same expert thinks it entirely possible that Nixon may be beaten in 1972 even if he winds the Vietnam war down to a nonissue and gets the economy back into a really heartening upward spiral.

The President's credibility problem is not the only factor in this judgment, as a later report will bring out. Still, that dilemma is key.

If he should manage real progress on the war and the economy, the President could in fact be in the ironic position of getting big things done while looking and sounding as if he hadn't.

After all, it is Nixon, not any attacking Democrat, who has brought out Vietnam troop levels down to 265,000 from the 543,000 there in 1969.

Beyond doubt he will keep on pulling men out until the force in Vietnam is either quite small, or removed altogether. The President plainly believes his way of withdrawing is right. Yet when he defends it, he sometimes sounds as if he might not make it to the office next day. The hard twist is that voters watching him might just see that he doesn't.

Jack Anderson Says Pan American Seeks Mitchell's Approval of Merger With TWA

WASHINGTON — Pan American World Airways has made a quiet approach to the Justice Department about the possibility of a merger with TWA. The whole affair has the smell of a backroom deal.

For instance, the approach was made by Herbert Brownell, a top Republican who was Attorney General in the Eisenhower Administration. He now serves Pan Am as "special counsel" for its merger explorations.

Brownell went over the head of Assistant Attorney General Richard McClaren, whose anti-trust division has jurisdiction over mergers, and made his pitch directly to Attorney General John Mitchell.

Such high-level Republican maneuvering suggests that Pan Am may be attempting to get a secret go-ahead from the Nixon Administration.

Although Brownell and TWA Chairman Charles Tillinghast stoutly deny there has been any merger agreement, both confirmed that the two international air giants have held talks. They said no talks are now in progress.

However, Brownell submitted a hush-hush 43-page memorandum to Mitchell entitled "A Pan American-TWA Merger Would Serve the Public Interest."

The document, which my associate Brit Hume has obtained, is laced with language suggesting that both airlines regard a merger as virtually their only chance for survival in a field where they claim the competition has become destructive.

"Steadily increasing competition from foreign airlines and from charter airlines has left Pan Am and TWA overstrained financially and burdened by the most severe operating losses in the industry," the memo mourns.

"Unless the merger is approved," it says, "charter service must be curtailed if the U. S. flag transatlantic and round-the-world system is to be preserved from ultimate extinction."

"Drift Toward Disaster"

If the merger does not go through "and the inevitable drift towards disaster continues with respect to U. S. flag carriers," the memo later asserts, "the country may well be faced with the prospect of keeping alive a mortally stricken industry with the inefficient props of subsidy or government ownership."

Reached at his New York City office, Brownell said Pan Am had "been talking to practically every major domestic airline" but insisted no agreements had been reached.

In an apparent effort to allay any suspicion that Pan Am might be keeping its stockholders in the dark, Brownell hastened to point out that Pan Am President Najeeb Halaby had informed the company's recent annual meeting about vague merger soundings.

Unaware we had a copy of his memo to Mitchell, Brownell at first described it as merely a discussion of the "legality of airline mergers." He called it "a straight legal memo on what must be considered for a big merger to go through."

Pressed, he finally acknowledged that it dealt specifically with TWA. Brownell said, however, that Pan Am's talks with TWA had ended "inconclusively" several months ago.

This was confirmed by TWA's Tillinghast, who described his company's talks with Pan Am as "very preliminary" and said he had no knowledge of Brownell's approach to the Justice Department.

Washington Whirl

Nader for President? — We reported last March that consumer crusader Ralph Nader's name had turned up in some of the presidential polls, much to the consternation of the serious contenders. In some polls, Nader led all the Democratic regulars. Now Gore Vidal has launched a presidential boom for Nader in Esquire magazine. All this has embarrassed Nader who fears the presidential speculation might "impede our work."

People might get the mistaken idea, he told us, that he is motivated by presidential ambition. "I am not interested at all," he said.

Humane Reform — A bereaved Florida father, who received a tax form addressed to his son killed in action, has brought a halt to the practice. "For the love of God," he wrote the Internal Revenue Service, "can't you people coordinate themselves with the military so that a man killed in the service of his country does not receive a due-bill for services rendered?" A copy of the letter was sent to Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., who took action through the House Monetary Affairs Committee. Under committee pressure, Commissioner Randolph Thorer reported back: "Hereafter, the three military departments will include the IRS among those receiving timely notification of death of servicemen." He said a letter explaining possible tax refunds to the survivors will be mailed out, and IRS district offices have been ordered to give survivors "personal attention...to deal with tragic situations in a humane way."

Smuggling Route — Narcotics agents have traced huge shipments of deadly heroin from the remote, rugged mountains of northern Thailand to the back alleys of America. Former Chinese Nationalist troops bring the opium down from the mountains to Chiangmai, Thailand. From there, the corrupted Thai army officials supervise the shipments to Bangkok. Then the raw opium is usually shipped in fishing trawlers to Hong Kong. In the dead of night, often in Red Chinese waters, the trawlers transfer the opium to local junks. In Hong Kong, industrious Chinese chemists convert the raw opium into high-grade heroin for smuggling either directly to the U. S. or through such Latin American countries as Colombia. Narcotics agents can pinpoint the Hong Kong heroin because it has minute traces of caffeine in it.

Henry J. Taylor Says Relentless Gold Speculation

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally is now Samson with his hair gone regarding the international dollar, and with the zooming price of gold he sees our entire settlements system threatened.

This is the so-called two-tier system. It means that there are two prices for gold. One is the free gold market in London, Zurich, Paris, Brussels, Frankfurt and Amsterdam at whatever the going price is. The other is the official monetary price of $35 an ounce set by the governments' central banks have agreed to use among themselves.

In December, 1969, when the London price in the free gold market slipped below this official monetary level to $34.90 the sigh of relief within our Treasury was great. This was the lowest price in the 36 years since President Roosevelt fixed the price for monetary gold at $35 an ounce of more than $14 an ounce from its old price of $20.67.

Gold had hit $45 an ounce before this welcome fall, largely because of immense international speculation. With world wide millions, the wisdom of generations shows that gold is real wealth and paper money is not, a knowledge that does not question itself and does not change.

For example, the Napoleon is the classic French gold piece. In 1914 it was worth 20 paper francs. Today it is worth more than 1,900 paper francs — an increase of around 40,000 per cent.

While nations' paper money flutters, gold remains heavy in your hand, universally accepted and unquestioned — the metal which made the international gold standard the greatest adventure in economic "integration" the world has even seen. Combined with free trade or even moderate tariffs, it worked toward turning the world into a single market.

The London gold market traditionally supplies buyers with 12.5 kilogram (27.5 pounds) bars. Paris market dealers go as low as gold bars of one kilogram (2.2 pounds). Monetary gold bought by governments is easily distinguishable from the hoarding and speculative demand. And the gold speculators in turn, are really a different breed — a very special thing.

They come out of the woodwork like termites and in their special way attack the currencies of any country by trying for a killing in gold. Their speculations, which include planted rumors, sometimes self-create weaknesses in currencies that could otherwise weather the other storms and, by the same token, you can always count on them to perform against any suspect currency.

Many lost their shirts — an estimated $2 billion — in the last great gold bubble when the bubble burst at $45 and gold went back to its $35 bottom. But now they are at it again and have eaten through much of the immense supply of speculative gold that has been hanging over the London, Zurich, etc., markets.

Our Treasury experts under Secretary Connally have traced most of today's heavy, relentless speculation in gold to widely scattered European speculators, many rich Latin Americans who have been taking their money out of Latin America steadily in the face of Communist coups, rich sheiks in the Middle East oil domains, and large numbers of extraordinarily wealthy Chinese, Malaysians, Indians and Japanese in the Far East. In fact, our Treasury finds Oriental speculators operating through Hong Kong among the largest of all groups.

This renewed impact has pushed the gold price above $40. And therein lies the threat to the entire two-tier system.

Any monetary system will work for the United States if we have a balanced budget and an equilibrium in our international balance of payments. But we have neither. Instead, we have had billions on billions in constant unending budget deficits and true balance-of-payments deficits against which the two-tier system is admittedly a mere improvisation.

Thus, the strain arises now on our entire settlements system. For it is commonly agreed by our own Treasury officials and the officials of the Bank of England and other central banks abroad that the system, and its survival, largely depends on the gap not being too big between the $35 monetary gold price and the price of gold on the free markets.

Solutions Offered

Editor, The Freeman:
I understand that the Town Board of Saugerties is tired of being criticized and suggests that those critics come forward and offer solutions to existing problems.
Criticism, gentlemen, is bred and you must correct the situations which breed it. There are citizens all over this town who have offered constructive suggestions to you. They have attended meetings and have volunteered their time to work on committees. They have placed legitimate complaints before you and have pleaded for action.
You have citizen manpower at your disposal but you make little use of it. You have the authority to solve the town's problems. You asked for and accepted the responsibility of a public office. You are responsible to all the citizens of this town.
You cannot expect citizen support if in return you do not support the citizens.
What you are witnessing gentlemen is the emergence of the silent majority.

Greatly Troubled

Editor, The Freeman:
There are five things that greatly trouble me:
That many people in this country are so willing to accept the words of the far left, Hanoi, Russia or China, as truth, and so reluctant to believe their own President. Do character and integrity no longer mean anything? Do people really prefer lies to the truth?

That so many people accept as a Peace Symbol, no questions asked; a symbol under which Jerusalem was destroyed, which was on the death certificates of Jews slain by the Nazis, and which is on the closed churches in Russia. Is this the symbol of Peace or Death?

That of all wars, only the war in Vietnam has been labeled immoral. Why? Could it be because to the Communist anything that hinders their plan for world conquest is immoral? Will we ever learn that even though the words may be ours, they don't have our meanings?

That some actually believe you can have freedom with neither God, nor laws. When every man is a law unto himself we have either anarchy or chaos. Do they want to force a military government, so that this nation "of the people, by the people, and for the people, will not perish from the earth."

That some men, and even some women, dare use the office of the Shepherd of God's Flock, to proclaim doctrines to undermine and destroy the very Truths they pretend to preach. Is not the business of the Church to preach the Bible as the Word of God? And to live according to it's commandments? Even as the Master who went about doing good?

God bless our country and keep it one nation "under God".

Public Sees Itself as 'Middle Road' or 'Fairly Conservative'

PRINCETON, N.J. — A majority of Americans today (57 per cent) classify themselves as "middle-of-the-road" or "fairly conservative." The total conservative wing — very conservative or fairly conservative — totals 39 per cent compared to 26 per cent who make up the liberal wing.

While the political climate in the U.S. today is more conservative than liberal, the public's image of President Nixon tends to be more middle-of-the-road or conservative than it considers itself.

A total of 36 per cent see the President as middle-of-the-road, compared to 29 per cent who place themselves in this category. The proportion who rate the President as conservative is almost identical (38 per cent) with the proportion who classify themselves in this manner.

Extreme Wings Are Small

In the news media, the greatest attention is given to the extremes of the two political philosophies, but in actuality, these two groups comprise a fraction of the population — only 11 per cent call themselves "very conservative" and 7 per cent "very liberal."

Considering only those voters who comprise the crucial middle-of-the-road group in American politics — those described by the Scammon and Wattenberg political treatise as the "Real Majority" — One-third describe Nixon "very" or "fairly" conservative and only 43 per cent see the President as also middle-of-the-road.

In this April 24, 25 Gallup survey, a total of 1599 persons, 18 years of age and older, were interviewed in more than 300 scientifically selected communities across the nation. These were the questions asked:

"How would you describe yourself (President Nixon) — as very conservative, fairly conservative, middle-of-the-road, fairly liberal, or very liberal?"

Following are the results in table form, showing the public's own profile, the President's political image, and how the middle group among the public regards Nixon's politics:

Enough States May Not Ratify 18-Year-Old Vote for 1971

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is possible but not likely that enough states will ratify the proposed 18-year-old voting rights constitutional amendment to make it effective this year.

But there still appears to be a good chance it will become law prior to the nation's first presidential preference primary in New Hampshire March 14.

The prospect that ratification will not come this year elections. Current law specifies reverses a forecast six weeks ago by a UPI survey of states where legislatures were then in session. But it has not dimmed the view of supporters of the amendment, such as Common Cause, which still have high hopes for ratification by the end of this summer.

The amendment would lower the voting age to 18 in all states. At present 29 states have taken 38 for its adoption to the U.S. Constitution—and nine more must take similar action before it becomes effective.

A new survey of the 21 states yet to approve the amendment discloses legislatures in only 12 currently are in session or have special sessions scheduled this year at which the matter can be considered.

Only two of them does the amendment appear to have passed on to Israel. The Israeli and New York.

In seven others the outcome is questionable. These are Illinois, Oklahoma, Oregon, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Mississippi and Ohio.

The matter is still before the Missouri and Ohio legislatures and with no indication when it will be considered.

TWO BIG KINGSTON STORES ULSTER PLAZA ON ULSTER AVENUE MALL and 311 WALL STREET IN UPTOWN KINGSTON

To Kingston Savings Bank, "mortgage" is not a dirty word.

Half of our motto is, "Provide for the future." There's meaning behind those words. And money, too. Money we've allocated specifically for mortgage loans. Not for some far away place where we can get higher rates.

For right here in our county. Now. For you. If you want to build or buy a home this year, talk to a Kingston Savings Bank mortgage officer. After a brief, confidential talk, if we can say yes, that's what we'll say.

Oh, about the other half of our motto: "Preserve the past." We can apply that to Home Improvement Loans.

In other words, we expect our "loan approved" stamp to wear out rather fast this year.

POET DIES — Ogden Nash, who commented on the foibles and frustrations of 20th century life in hundreds of improbably rhymed verses, died Wednesday. He was 68. Nash died in John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, after complications arising from surgery to combat kidney failure. He had been hospitalized since March 13 and was kept alive more than a month by an artificial kidney machine. (UPI TELE- PHOTO.)

Six Persons Injured In Auto Accidents

Six persons were injured as the result of motor vehicle accidents that occurred on area highways on Wednesday.

Kingston State Police reported cars operated by Mrs. Jeanne Camerota, 29, of 3 Appletree Drive, Saugerties, and Hollister Sutton, 57, of RD 2, Box 161A, Kingston, were involved in a mishap on Route 28 near the Retreat Restaurant, Town of Kingston at about 3:30 p.m. yesterday.

Injured and taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance Service were two children of Mrs. Camerota. Kathy, 8, sustained lacerations of the left arm and right leg, and her brother, Michael, 6, received a broken nose and abrasions and contusions of the body, according to a report of Trooper R. M. Hout of Kingston.

The Camerota car was westbound and attempting a left turn and the Sutton vehicle was in the passing lane when the crash occurred, police said. Two men were injured shortly before 6:30 p.m. Wednesday when the car in which they were riding went out of control on Abeel Street and slammed into a utility pole about 200 feet west of Ravine Street, according to Kingston Police. William Echevarria, 25, of 46 Boulevard, told police he was eastbound on Abeel Street when the vehicle hit the pole, and then spun around and crashed into a rock cliff. The driver suffered head, back and leg injuries. A passenger, Julio Fuentes, 21, of the Boulevard address, received injuries of the knees, back, neck and head.

Both men were removed from the scene of the mishap to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance Service. Highland State Police investigated two traffic accidents that resulted in personal injuries.

At 5:20 p.m. yesterday, a car driven by Florence Jansen, 61, of Box 445, New Paltz, and a motorcycle operated by George Herbert, 28, of Chandler Lane, Montgomery, were involved in a collision on Albany Post Road, Town of Gardiner.

Troopers B. S. O'Connor reported the woman was southbound and attempting a right turn into a driveway and the motorcycle was attempting to pass on the right when the mishap occurred. Herbert was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance suffering a compound fracture of the left leg, police said.

Trooper H. S. Hazlett of Highland investigated a mishap at 11:15 p.m. on North Putt Corners Road, New Paltz. John Olsen, 24, of Colonial Drive, that village, was northbound when his car went off the east shoulder and hit a tree. Olsen was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance and treated for a possible fractured leg and back injuries.

Finn Children Will Remain In School Area

KINGSTON Sophie Finn School children will not be bused to the George Washington or Port Ewen Schools next year, Superintendent Louis A. Salzmann said today.

District administrators met with some 50-75 parents of Sophie Finn School children Wednesday night in an attempt to find out what action the parents preferred in order to alleviate overcrowded conditions at the Finn school.

According to Salzmann, the parents responded overwhelmingly that they want their children to remain in the Finn school area. Accordingly, Salzmann said that the children will be distributed among School No. 2 and the Finn school next year, rather than transferred to the George Washington or Port Ewen Schools.

The District Administration will forward a resolution to that effect to the Board of Education for approval.

Home, Fish Plant Damaged by Fire

KINGSTON Firemen fought flames that caused extensive damage to a second floor bedroom at the two-story frame residence of the Frank T. Roedel family at 35 Hemlock Street Wednesday night.

Kingston firemen also were dispatched to the State Fish Company plant on Dock Street after a leak in the ammonia system caused fumes to spread outside the building.

At 9:31 p.m. six fire units in charge of Deputy Chief Harry Sills responded to an alarm for fire at the Roedel home. On arrival firefighters found a bedroom heavily involved in fire and smoke. Two 1 1/2-inch pump streams were used to quell the flames and check the spread of the fire to other parts of the house.

Firemen opened sections of the walls and ceilings to check fire damage back of the partitions. Extensive smoke and water damage also was reported on the two floors and in the cellar. Officials said the fire was caused by varnish remover that was being used with steel wool.

Engines 1 and 2, Trucks 1 and 2, and Union units were at the scene, while other companies covered up in other stations. Fire companies were back in service at 11:17 p.m.

At 7:44 p.m. firemen were sent to the State Fish Company plant after a leak was discovered in the ammonia system. Firefighters used Scot air packs to enter the building and shut off the ammonia supply, officials said. A 2 1/2-inch gravity fog line was used to remove the fumes outside the building.

A spokesman for the company said that the power went off in the building causing the pressure to build up and allow the ammonia fumes to seep from the lines. Deputy Chief Sills and firemen returned to their stations at 9:15 p.m.

Memorial

In sweet remembrance of our beloved son, Owen J. Smith, who left us May 20, 1966.

How do we love thee, let us count the ways. We love thee to the depth and breadth and height our souls can reach when feeling out of sight for the ends of being and ideal grace. We love thee to the level of every day's most quiet need, by sun and candlelight. We love thee freely, as men strive for rights, we love thee purely as they turn from praise. We love thee with the passion put to use. In our old grief, and with our childhood's faith. We love thee with a love we seemed to lose with our lost saints. We love thee with the breath, smiles, tears, of all our lives, and if God choose, we shall love thee better after death.

May perpetual light shine upon you always.

The War on Cancer — Specialists See No Easy Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The time has come for an all-out campaign to cure cancer, say government leaders.

President Nixon proposes just such an effort, and he recently spelled out objectives and some approaches. They are very similar to those in a bill already introduced in the Senate by Sens. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Jacob Javits, R-N.Y.

Cancer specialists applaud the purpose. But they sound some notes of caution.

Curing cancer cannot be accomplished quickly with the kind of powerful concentration of money and talent that produced the A-bomb, or which sent men safely to the moon and back.

Those were marvelous achievements, but mostly engineering ventures, successfully using basic knowledge that was already available. Einstein and others had discovered what might happen when an atom was split. Galileo, Newton and others had produced the basic facts about gravity, space, planetary motions, and other principles for going to the moon.

But that kind of fundamental knowledge does not yet exist for either curing or preventing most human cancers.

Perhaps only 50 to 60 percent of the basic knowledge required for full control of cancer exists at this time, says a spokesman for the American Cancer Society.

When the rest may be found, and by whose trained minds, can't be predicted. But, he says, that's no reason not to go looking for it more intensively and extensively, and to apply existing knowledge more intensively and efficiently to treat cancer patients, or to prevent cancers.

But unless the difficulties of finding the answers are appreciated, there's danger of raising false hopes.

"You can't go down to the corner drug store and buy a breakthrough in cancer research," says one medical school dean, Dr. Arthur Richardson of Emory University. Needed is "unrestricted money for basic research, not just development money." Viruses cause human cancers. If they do, then a particular vaccine might be developed, but it might work against only one form of cancer, such as cancer of the breast, or leukemia.

Perhaps, says an official of the National Cancer Institute, 100 vaccines or treatments might be required to control the broad variety of human cancers. Developing vaccines could take some time. Even after it had been established and costing about $40,000 per animal, that only three types of virus cause human polio, it still took some years to develop the Salk polio vaccine, and to prove that it worked, and worked safely.

Look to another aspect—that chemicals can cause cancers. Each year, some 200,000 new chemicals are introduced into man's environment. If only a relatively few are used extensively, and if only 10 per cent of them might produce cancers, this still means 50 to 200 should be tested—a process taking in the number of scientists engaged in cancer research, and in the flow of imaginative ideas aimed at cracking enigmas of life and cancer, one cancer expert says.

Needed especially is more basic research to learn why living cells stay healthy, or become cancerous.

The proposals would set up a kind of superagency to concentrate these efforts, and provide it with many more millions of dollars than are now spent annually. But hitting the target may take many more years.

Yoga Class Approved by Paltz

KINGSTON Mrs. Rahila McKee, who is on the faculty of New Paltz State University College, Department of Continuing Education, has had her yoga course approved as a credit course for University students.

She also holds classes in her studio in Kingston in the Burgevin Building, Fair Street, and will be commencing a 12-week beginners course today, devoted primarily to exercises, breathing techniques, simple meditation and diet.

Mrs. McKee recently addressed the students at the New Paltz High School Humanities Day.

"During the great periods of India's history, no Royal Court was complete without a Yogic Sage as chief advisor to the King, and meditation was the essential part of a noble warrior's training. Nothing can surpass the yoga postures for cumstance. Some of the leaders building up the body in a controlled systematic manner, leaving no muscles unused, and to give up drugs and turn to not only incur no muscle fatigue, but leaving the muscles more relaxed than they were before the session."

Speaking on the importance of the spine, Mrs. McKee went on: "The Yogis say 'A flexible spine means a long life' because the spinal cord is the lifeline of the body."

Mrs. McKee from her observation of the drug scene emphatically states that it is impossible to achieve this by drugs alone, which as everyone knows, effectively removes the reins of control from a man, making him a puppet of circumstance. Some of the leaders in the drug scene, having taken drugs for years, eventually had to give up drugs and turn to yoga for final answers to their searching souls.

"If only the youth of today could be taught yoga as a compulsory part of their curriculum, we would have 'Human Man' tomorrow. 'Humanitarian Man' — Conscious, Aware Beings, well-balanced and harmonious in body and mind, able to take up the nation's work with love, energy and detachment."

Leslie Bacon In Contempt on Questioning

SEATTLE (UPI)—Leslie Bacon was jailed for contempt Wednesday when she refused to answer federal grand jury questions about the bombing of the U.S. Capitol and the May Day demonstration in Washington, D.C.

As she was taken off to a city jail cell, her attorneys said they would appeal.

The blonde antiwar activist had been granted a limited immunity from prosecution, but spurned the legal shield when asked 18 questions about radical activities before the grand jury.

Miss Bacon, 19, was sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge William Goodwin to a jail term not to exceed the present grand jury term, which ends in February.

Goodwin ruled if she decides to cooperate with the grand jury investigation, the contempt sentence would be terminated.

"I have no intention of answering those questions," Miss Bacon said in court.

She said the government has "paranoid fantasies" of conspiracies and is trying "to frame innocent people."

Miss Bacon was arrested April 27 in Washington, D.C., as a material witness in the Capitol bombing and was held in federal custody until the contempt sentencing.

The questions which she refused to answer centered on her knowledge of plans to bomb the Capitol and to state the May Day demonstrations.

CHICAGO, ILL. — Walgreen Company has announced three management level promotions in its agency division, headquartered in Chicago. Former agency regional sales manager Robert C. Gensler was promoted to general sales manager. He is replaced in the southwest by sales representative Ronald L. Buckles. Buckles, who attended Western Illinois University, joined the company as a salesman in 1967 and most recently represented Walgreen Agency in Ohio.

Agency sales representative Bill G. Eckley was promoted to western regional sales manager succeeding Walter F. Stewart, who is retiring. Eckley joined the drug chain in 1947 and was transferred to the agency division as a salesman in 1953. He has represented the franchised division in various sections of the country. Volkswagen Starts 'Thinking Larger'

KINGSTON — Volkswagen, which built its reputation in the market place over the past 22 years by "thinking small" began thinking "slightly larger" May 1 when it introduced a new line of roomier and more comfortable models, including its first four door sedan.

According to Donald Amerling, vice-president of Volkswagen, the authorized VW sales, service and parts facility on Route 9W in the Town of Ulster, the new "Type 4" vehicles combine luxury, comfort, quality, economy and dependability in a practical size and will ideally serve the needs of those who want more room than VW's other passenger cars provide. With a torque - converter three-speed automatic transmission provided as standard equipment, the two vehicles available in the Type 4 series — the 411 4-Door and the 411 Wagon — will both carry a suggested retail list price of $2999.

As with all other vehicles, the Type 4s are covered by a 24-month or 24,000-mile warranty and are delivered to buyers with coupons entitling them to free VW Diagnosis, introduced nationwide at the start of the 1970 model year, helps detect minor mechanical difficulties so that they can be corrected during the warranty period before developing into major repair problems.

Ford Set For Steuben Address

WASHINGTON

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford will be the principal speaker at the Steuben Society of America's 52nd Founders' Day Banquet May 22 at the Hotel Americana in New York City.

Warming up for that occasion, the GOP congressman met with the Steuben Society's legislative committee in Washington recently and said that he is "disappointed" with West German Chancellor Willi Brandt's policy of Ostpolitik (East Politics).

Ford said Brandt's policy will not benefit NATO or the free world and that the West German leader is "giving away something he did not have to give away and is getting nothing in return."

"It appears," said Ford, "that the West German Chancellor is preempting the prerogatives of the Western powers in seeking to negotiate a final East-West settlement and a German peace treaty."

At the Founders' Day Banquet in New York City, Ford will share the podium with State Supreme Court Justice Albert H. Bosch and Otto Heerlein, two former National Chairmen who will be honored for "distinguished service."

Rondout Community Action ... A Significant Record Against Odds

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The short view of the activities of the Rondout Community Action Committee can be somewhat deceiving. The group goes about its business with little fanfare.

The long view, over the past four years or so, provides a record of significant accomplishment against often heavy odds.

The Community Action Committee set up shop under the umbrella of OEO, those sweeping federal programs of the mid-60's which attempted to lift people from poverty into the Great Society.

Community Action became the local, if somewhat ill-defined implement, of the OEO program.

Arthur Randolph, chairman of the board, today defines it as "people."

We help people. All kinds of people. Black people. White people. We don't say no. We say we'll do what we can. Where there's a will there's a way.

Community action mobilized that will, for the first time, on a significant subject, the closing of the Cornell fire station in 1967.

Eddie Parker, charter member of the Rondout Board, and now president of the County UCCAC Board, remembers it well. "They were going to close down the fire station," he said. "The people didn't know what to do. They wanted to keep it open. We got the people together. It eventually involved the whole community. Everyone stood behind it. Even the aldermen. We kept it open."

The so-called Albert Brown Memorial Recreational Center is another example of organization and perseverance by the Rondout Committee.

Brown was the first community organizer. He played a key role in exposing relocation procedures by the urban renewal agency in Broadway East that displaced numerous families without providing suitable housing for them.

Brown, a city policeman, was killed in an auto accident in the fall of 1967. The community action committee petitioned the Common Council to name a proposed recreation center after him.

The Council approved it. The mayor vetoed it. The Council overrode former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's veto. The bids came in over estimate. For a year and a half nothing happened.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig came into office. The committee worked with him. A $285,000 structure will rise over the site of the old Orpheum Theater. The completion date is targeted for November of this year.

Along the way, the name Albert Brown was dropped because of federal regulations against naming a building after an individual. "We're still shocked about it not being named after Al Brown," Randolph says, "but we have the building. Maybe we can deal with the name at a later date."

Melinda Davis became the community organizer after Brown's death. She set up programs for both babies and senior citizens. The Rondout Baby Sitting Service was an instant success growing from three youngsters to over three dozen in less than a year. Hot meals and adult supervision were provided for those children of working mothers in the Rondout area.

The Martin Luther King Senior Citizen Club meets regularly at the service center. This year, an emergency food grant has provided the wherewithal for hot lunches for the elders, both downtown and at the YWCA.

The community action committee was instrumental in turning the lights back on in Rondout during the height of urban renewal road construction last year. It took a march on city hall by more than 50 persons but the problems were settled. Police service was also a part of the grievance package.

"We've met with school officials on various problems," Randolph said. "They've been very interested and cooperative. We provide a sort of neutral ground where problems can be worked out."

The committee is starting to get some "outside" (outside of Rondout, that is) help in other areas. Vincent G. Bradley, a Green Street attorney, has been holding legal counseling services on Thursday nights for the past few months. The sessions have been well received by the Rondout community, and, apparently, by the legal community. Randolph reports that other attorneys have expressed interest in joining Bradley and his program.

This year, for the first time, the committee endorsed a candidate for the Kingston Schools Consolidated — Joseph Feraca — who was elected. A marked upturn in voting at the JFK School on Gross Street where a great many downtowners vote, was noted. The committee's latest project is to provide adult supervision for the basketball court on Union Street. Parker and Randolph is setting up games for the area youngsters at the Highland School.

Randolph, Parker (and Brown) and the rest of the advisory board seem to have an abiding faith in Rondout and its people. "Things are changing," Randolph says. "We're all working together."

Members of the Rondout Advisory Board, in addition to those shown in the accompanying photos, include the Rev. John Gilmore, Kingston Human Relations Director; Marina Price, Lenny Van Dyke, Ronald Brown, the Rev. Neal Ingraham, Rose Turner, Lucille Green and Anne Davis. Elections to the board will be held next month.

Special

Lately, Randolph, Parker, Eddie Brown, the new community organizer (he replaced Mrs. Davis who now concentrates on senior citizen programs) have become involved in working with the board of education in solving school problems with area youth.

Joining those three are James Miller, a senior social worker at the Highland Training School for Boys and Doug S. Myers, guidance counselor at MJM Junior High School and a former UCCAC board chairman.

Pattern Studying Stewart Airport Expansion

NEWBURGH — Pattern for Progress is moving toward a "joint airport environs development concept" in its study of the probable environmental impact associated with the proposed expansion of Stewart Airport into a major jetport, it was indicated this week.

Arthur E. Weintraub, Pattern's senior vice-president, told members of the Poughkeepsie Lions Clubs at a recent dinner meeting in the Poughkeepsie Inn that Pattern's analysis will serve as a means for evaluating any eventual proposals for the airport's expansion, which are to be contained in a study pected to be impacted by noise, and to what degree;

• the influence of terrain on air operations.

"In addition, we will be studying:

• the facility and service requirements for potential new development expected to be generated by any airport expansion;

• the effect on surrounding land use;

• the economic impact as it relates to employment patterns and tax base;

• the social impact, including relocation problems and the like.

"Taking all these factors into consideration," Weintraub said, "we hope to come up with a joint airport-environs development concept, in essence, a total approach aimed at adapting any proposed airport expansion so that it would be compatible with both the area's natural and man-made environment."

By this means, Weintraub added, the Mid-Hudson region will have a factual, concrete basis for influencing important decisions by the state in connection with Stewart Airport's expansion.

Adam Powell's Charisma Fades

The Appearances Are Deceiving

EDITOR'S NOTE—For years Adam Clayton Powell held sway over the tiny Bimini coral islands. He was probably the most important man there, loved and cheered by the natives. A news conference was a momentous event. Now six months after his 22-year career in Congress came to an end, things are different.

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — Sipping a vodka and ginger ale aboard "Adam's Fancy Too," the nattily attired skipper of the 40-foot yacht still looked every inch the uncrowned prince of these tiny coral islands.

But the appearance was deceiving. Adam Clayton Powell's charisma apparently has faded badly among many of Bimini's 1,800 residents.

Two years ago when he called a news conference, natives and newsmen alike would flock to Brown's Hotel to hear Powell. This time—on a Thursday very recently—there were no natives and just two newsmen.

"Why is he calling a news conference?" asked Neville Brown before the Adam's Fancy Too pulled up to the dock in front of Brown's Hotel. "No body cares what he says any more. He's done, mon."

Brown's father owns the hotel. He runs the Bamboo Lounge, one of South Bimini's more popular water spots.

Powell, lost his seat in Congress last November.

In the spring and summer of 1967 when the Harlem leader was fighting Congressional censure and a criminal contempt citation in New York, Powell's Bimini followers were legion. They crowded around for a good seat during his news conferences and rooted Powell on as he parried questions with the flippant answers that were his trademark.

This time, Powell was the perfect host. His son, Adam III, invited the two newsmen aboard and Powell held the conference in the yacht's cabin time in the presence of his son, his Adam IV. Later, walking daughter-in-law, former New England socialite Beryl Slocum; his grandson, 4-month-old Adam Clayton Powell IV; and his finance secretary, Darlene Expose, whom he introduced as "Mrs. Powell."

"After you read my announcement I'm open to all questions," he said.

Although slightly heavy in the jowls, Powell looked fit at 61.

The conference was to announce that Powell had authored three books, that he was building a new home on North Bimini, that he would spend part of his time in Washington, and that he was stepping down as pastor of Harlem's giant Abyssinian Baptist Church—the political base upon which he had built his long career in Congress.

In 1967, Powell had to speak over the noise of laughing natives and chatty tourists. This time it was the wailing of Powell's boat pilot. Then came the election defeat last year when his Harlem constituency finally turned its back on him after 22 years.

Now, some of the islanders seem almost hostile to Powell. "Did you get what you came for?" Neville Brown asked after Powell and his entourage chugged away for an afternoon of fishing. "Not much, I'll bet. What could he say anybody would care about?"

Another mar whose muscular chest was covered with a tee-shirt bearing the legend "Bonafish Sam," said:

"Everybody used to appreciate Mr. Powell highly when he first came here. We would leave our church services to hear him speak. But we've found out he doesn't stand for what we believe in."

But his image was already showing tarnish when traveling companion Corrine Huff announced she was marrying Powell's boat pilot. Then came the election defeat last year when his Harlem constituency finally turned its back on him after 22 years.

Another Interior Dept. Confrontation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department appears headed for another confrontation over the environment, rivaling the controversy generated over the trans-Alaska oil pipe proposal.

This time it's the construction of power plants in the vast spaces of the Southwest.

In an interview an official said the department was rejecting the request of three citizen groups that it suspend federal cooperation in the construction of a giant electric complex and conduct an environmental impact study.

If the department stands firm, the outcome is likely to be a court challenge like the one that has blocked construction of the $1.5 billion trans-Alaska oil pipeline for more than a year.

The Environmental Defense Fund, an organization that won last year's court order halting the pipeline, is one of the groups questioning the Southwest power project.

Joining it are the National Wildlife Federation, a long-established conservation organization, and the Native American Rights Fund, representing Indians.

In their request made April 10, the three groups charged construction of privately owned power plants, already under way, will bring smog, water pollution, unsightly power lines and large-scale strip mining to Utah, New Mexico and Arizona, to generate more than 36 million kilowatts to serve Los Angeles, San Diego, Phoenix, Tucson and Las Vegas.

INDIAN-DUTCH HERITAGE was the theme used at a recent mother-daughter dinner given in the Hurley Reformed Church. Mrs. H. Van Wyck Darrow, dinner chairman, announced it was the largest attendance to date. Herbert Dick of Kingston, a member of the Winnebago Indians, presented a program of native dances and folklore. There were folk songs by Harry Siemsen and a talk on artifacts by Elmer Carney along with a display of original paintings by Miss Marie Siemsen. Indian artifacts exhibited were those found on the grounds of the Hurley Patentee Manor owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Waligurski. Decorations for the event included handmade teepees, pictured here. Working on decorations were (l-r) Mrs. Arthur Harder, chairman, Mrs. Donald Briggs and Mrs. Richard Ruth. (Bryson photo)

CHARTER MEMBER ATTENDS — Bertha Cooper, second from left, doesn't let the fact that she is 95 years of age prevent her from attending Zontian functions. A charter member of the Zonta Club of Schenectady, she attended Kingston's luncheon at The Hedges on May 15. With her are (l-r) Virginia Heher, Kingston Zonta luncheon co-chairman; Alma Sherman, Zonta International Secretary and a member of the Schenectady Club; and Angela Goffredi, Kingston Zonta luncheon co-chairman. GOP Women Planning Luncheon

The annual luncheon of Ulster County Republican Women's Club is slated for Saturday, June 5 at Sawyerkill Country Club, Washington Avenue Extension, Saugerties.

The luncheon has proven to be a fund-raising highlight of each year and this year the event promises to be especially outstanding. The Club which has been active as far back as the 1930's will honor those who have served as president since the Club was reorganized in 1948. The aim is to prove that the future of all clubs depends upon their past.

Past presidents include the Mmes. Vincent Connelly, Oscar Newkirk, Parker Brinnier, George Chilson, Henry DeWitt, Herbert Smith, Bernhardt Kramer, Raymond LeFever, John Schomer, William Krum, LeeRoy Croswell, Frederick Stang, Thomas Hanrahan, Robert Davidson, Alice Scardfield who served from 1952-53 is deceased.

To further honor the past presidents, a presentation of the popular skit, "You've Come a Long Way Baby," written by James Thompson of radio station WGHQ, will be given by the membership. The skit is a quick run-through on Woman's suffrage spiced with humor. It was first presented at the group's Christmas party for the Golden Age Club and has since been given for various clubs throughout the state after being awarded as "outstanding community project" by the state club. It has even been produced by a Republican club in Maine.

In extending an invitation to join the GOP Women's Club at the luncheon, President June Davidson has promised a fun-filled program and an afternoon of enjoyable fellowship.

She's 'Bewildered' About Marriage

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1971, by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a veteran who may be confined to a wheelchair for the rest of his life. I am in love with John (I think) but I have so many doubts. I have always dreamed of a lovely wedding, and I love children, and have always pictured family outings with my children romping about with their mother and father. I have always loved skiing, swimming, tennis. How does a wife enjoy these sports with a husband in a wheelchair?

If I go thru with my plans to marry John, how does a bride walk down the aisle to be met by her groom who is seated in a wheelchair, waiting for her? Even the matter of wedding pictures will be a problem. I realize these sound like little things which should probably never bother me, but they do. Will my children feel cheated because their father won't be able to do things with them that their friends' fathers will be doing?

I am 20 years old, Abby, and should know my own mind, but I am frankly bewildered. Can you, or any of your experienced readers, help me?

MISERABLE IN MAINE
DEAR MISERABLE: You have too many doubts, my dear. If you really loved John, you wouldn't be asking for someone to "sell" you on marrying him. You would be determined to marry him — no matter what, and you'd be so sold that no one could talk you out of it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a sticky problem. I share an apartment with a young man from a foreign country. He is here for graduate study. I told him I was going out of town for the weekend and he asked me if he could have a friend stay with him in our apartment. I thought it was another fellow, since he is a married man and speaks so lovingly of his wife and child. When I returned, he told me that his guest was a lady friend. I do not approve of adultery and was shocked and disappointed in this young man.

I plan to go away again, and my roommate has asked if he may have a guest (I presume it's the same one) in my absence. How should I handle this? He is older than I, and I am not about to give him a moral lecture, but I don't want to be a party to such goings on.

ACCOMPLICE
DEAR ACCOMPLICE: Tell your roommate what you have told me. And since your moral codes are not compatible with his, I think you'd both be happier with a change of roommates.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Wrong Way Corrigan" (the lady motorist who always gets lost): Welcome to the club! Don't be upset about getting places in a "roundabout" fashion. It's better than most people who don't drive can do. Besides, you're not really "lost." You are just misplaced for the moment.

Did you consider that gas stations are really for giving directions? Selling gas is a sideline. Some of the nicest people in the world are gas station attendants, policemen and dog walkers. I know. I have met thousands of them. I have 34,000 miles on my car, of which 4,000 are "misplaced."

Traveling without adequate directions is a challenge. Besides, you become a source of amusement to your friends who begin to look forward to the story of your "safari." Perfection is boring!

ELIZABETH B. K.
President of See America Unintentionally Club

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and just had my sixth baby. My husband is 23. I had him talked into getting one of those operations men have so they can't father any more children. It's called a "vasectomy." Then the day before he was supposed to have it done, some guys at work told him he was a fool to risk losing his manhood. The way my doctor explained the operation to me, it could be done right in the doctor's office and it wouldn't hurt my husband's manhood at all. How can I get this thru his head Abby? We can't afford any more kids and I am worn out from those I have. Thank you.

COLORADO READER
DEAR READER: Tell your husband to quit listening to the guys at work and listen to a doctor who will tell him that a vasectomy in no way reduces a man's manhood. And it takes more of a man to protect his wife against unwanted children than to take his chances.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been separated (not divorced) for 11 years. Each year on the anniversary of our marriage we celebrate together. We have grown children and two lovely grandchildren. We have been celebrating the whole 21 years that we've been married, but I have had friends tell me that this is wrong. They say since we are not living together, we should not celebrate our wedding anniversaries. I say as long as we are still married and not divorced, we can celebrate if we want to.

STILL CELEBRATING
DEAR STILL: You don't need permission or approval from your friends to celebrate your wedding anniversary even though you're separated. So if it pleases you, go ahead and celebrate, and more power to you.

For a gift of love...

Vida Is Not Just Plain Blue

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
With Fort Knox gold, Kelly green and wedding gown white, you'd hardly expect the Oakland A's to fit any more colors into their scheme.

They have, though—Blue. Not just plain Blue. But Vida Blue. "You have to make up new words to describe him," Oakland Manager Dick Williams says of his super southpaw with the blurring-white fastball. Blue continues to color blind American League batters and Wednesday night, won his ninth straight game with a three-hit, 3-0 whitewashing of Milwaukee. Not incidentally, it was the fifth shutout for the dazzling 22-year-old.

"I'm learning as I go along," says Blue, who must be one of the fastest learners in baseball. The only time he lost was on Opening Day to the Washington Senators.

In the other American League games, Kansas City beat Chicago 2-0; Detroit humbled Cleveland 12-1; Boston whipped New York 7-2; Baltimore topped Washington 4-1; and Minnesota creamed California 12-6.

Blue, who pitched a one-hitter and a no-hitter last season after being called up to the big time from the minors in September, says he still is not completely confident on the mound. He points to catcher Dave Duncan as an ego-builder.

Blue had control problems in the early innings, walking a batter in each of the first three frames, but got better as he got later and wound up pitching one of his strongest games.

After the rocky beginning, Blue at one point retired 10 batters in a row before Danny Walton's single opened the seventh. The only other Milwaukee hits were singles by Roberto Pena in the third and Ron Theobald in the eighth.

What did Williams have to say about his brightest star on a pitching-rich staff?

"Well, he's not much of a hitter," Williams quipped.

Unbeaten Sonny Siebert

nailed down his seventh victory as Boston beat New York. Reggie Smith's two-run homer in the seventh snapped a 2-2 tie and the Red Sox scored three more times in the eighth. Siebert struggled most of the way, giving up eight hits, walking four and hitting one batter before leaving for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. The Yankees scored in the fourth on a bases-loaded walk to pitcher Steve Kline and in the seventh on Roy White's sacrifice fly which temporarily tied the game.

The Baltimore Orioles scored two runs without a hit in the first inning and spoiled a sparkling pitching debut by 21-year-old Mike Thompson. The Senators' rookie, called up from the minors only last Sunday, allowed just one single to pitcher Jim Palmer in seven innings of work. Palmer checked Washington on five hits to notch his sixth victory.

Tony Oliva socked his 10th homer and drove in three runs, and Charmin' Harmon Killbrew delivered three more with a two-run single and bases-loaded walk as Minnesota wiped out an early 5-2 California lead to beat the Angels.

Terry Harmon's Line Hit Hangs the Mets Up to Dry

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "If I've said it once I've said it a dozen times, guys like Terry Harmon make a manager's job easy."

Manager Frank Lucchesi of the Philadelphia Phillies was talking about Harmon after the 27-year-old utility infielder's three-run seventh-inning double broke up a 1-1 game. The hit gave the Phils a 4-1 victory over the slumping New York Mets Wednesday night.

"Some guys in his role could be a pain in the bleep," said Lucchesi. "He's a very good safety valve on this club." Actually, Harmon played because of an injury to Don Money.

Harmon, a graduate of Ohio University, has been with the Phillies two years, solely in a reserve capacity. He's satisfied with his role.

"I like it here," he said after the game as he enjoyed being the hero. "This is going to be a real good ball club, if not this year, in a few years. I want to stick around. If it means staying up as a utility man then it will be as a utility man."

Harmon, who had a single in addition to his game-winning double, now is hitting .353, five hits in 14 at bats. He can play shortstop, second and third base and usually has a shot at each during the season. Deron Johnson led off the Phillies seventh with a single. Larry Hulse ran for Johnson and reached second on an error by Bob Aspromonte on Joe Lis' bunt. Roger Freed dumped a bunt toward second and beat it out to load the bases, bringing up Harmon.

Harmon said he hit a hanging curve ball from Mets' left hander Jerry Koosman. "I think he meant to make it bad, in or out, but it got away from him. It was an easy pitch to swing at, up and not too much on it."

Koosman said the Mets lost their fourth straight game because of basic mistakes, his and Aspromonte's inability get Lis' bunt and make a good throw.

"If he (Aspromonte) had, then I would have pitched Harmon different. You can't give five outs in one inning," he said.

The Mets took a 1-0 lead in the second inning with a single, an error and a pop fly ball by Don Hahn that the Phillies surrounded like the Indians but didn't catch. The ball took a high bounce over left fielder Lis' head, allowing the run to score.

The Phillies tied it in the sixth on slugger Mike Ryan's third home run of the season. Ryan now has four hits in 26 bats for a .154 average, but they include play shortstop, second and a triple. Ryan said he was fooled by the pitch, but managed to flick his wrists and get the ball on the meat of his bat.

For the third successive game Wednesday night, there were six home runs hit at Atlanta Stadium, bringing the total for the year to 58 in 20 games. That's a better ratio than last year when 211 homers were hit there in 81 games.

Clete Boyer and Mike Lum each hit two for the Braves to lead their team to a 10-4 victory over Montreal. Boyer has hit four in the last three games. The Expos got homers from Rusty Staub and pinch hitter Clyde Ashmore.

Next to Atlanta Stadium, the park the hitters favor most is Wrigley Field in Chicago and the Giants and Cubs proved it by smacking six homers in their game. Billy Williams led the way with a pair of homers and triple as he helped Ferguson Jenkins gain his eighth victory of the year, 9-5. J.C. Martin also homered for the Cubs, while Hal Lanier, Bobby Bonds and Dick Dietz homered for the Giants.

Roberto Clemente collected four hits, including an inside-the-park homer to drive in three runs in the Pirates' 6-1 victory over the Reds. The triumph put the Pirates a full game ahead of the Mets in NL East.

Bushmen Add One More UCAL Crown

By IRA FUSFELD

NEW PALTZ — The easiest thing to predict here Wednesday was that Pine Bush would win the team crown in the Ulster County Athletic League championship track meet. Any other selections would have been wild stabs. Pine Bush did win, easily at that, with 129 points. Ontario and New Paltz, two teams expected to give the Bushmen high jump.

the most opposition, had to settle for fourth and third respectively as Marlboro swept into the runner-up spot. The Dukes notched 83 points. New Paltz had 82, and OCS tallied 76. Marlboro actually accumulated more first place medals than did Pine Bush, 54, and the big reason was Jerry Stokes' outstanding performances in the pole vault and high jump.

Stokes broke the previous Neilson were the other winners of Marlboro, the former taking a leap of six feet two inches. Fred Monroe of Marlboro had the old standard of six feet set in 1967. Then Jerry ran away with the pole vault. He eliminated the competition after clearing 11 feet three inches and kept going until he tied the UCAL record of 11-9 set by Glenn Lund of Ontario in 1967. George Salinovich and John Wally Krecidlo nabbed the 880 yard run, Jim Podavano was first in the discus, and Ken Onteora posted one win, the Papini was No. 1 in the triple two mile relay in 8:53.2, a league record. The same team had covered the distance in 9:10 earlier this season. Wallkill, which finished a strong fifth in the meet, won the 880 yard and mile relays and took the shot put behind Ed Williamson.

That Alworth-Rentzel Swap Keys a Blockbuster Trade

THE BIG SWAP — The Dallas Cowboys traded troubled wide receiver Lance Rentzel (right in 1970 photo) to the Los Angeles Rams Wednesday and received San Diego Charger wide receiver Lance Alworth (left in 1968 photo) in a deal that involved three teams and seven players. (UPI TELEPHOTO FROM FILES).

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have traded off a public relations problem, grabbed a needed clutch-receiving tight end and bagged two flashy wide receivers to add leverage to their Bob Hayes negotiations in a lightning series of National Football League swaps involving seven players.

Wide receiver Lance Rentzel, on probation for five years for indecent exposure, was traded Wednesday to the Los Angeles Rams for tight end Billy Truax and wide receiver Wendell Tucker.

Lance Alworth of San Diego, the seventh-ranking receiver in professional football, was sent to the Cowboys in exchange for tight end Pettis Norman, offensive tackle Tony Liscio and defensive tackle Ron East.

The Cowboys, who only recently obtained speedy flanker Glover Richardson from the Kansas City Chiefs, have been searching for more receiving help after Hayes, who played out his option in 1970, decided to shop about for a possible new team.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said of the Alworth trade: "Alworth's record speaks for itself. You look at all the receivers in the 1960s and you have to have to rate Alworth the top receiver for that period. We feel he has several outstanding years still in him. We were very reluctant to trade men the caliber of Norman, Liscio and East, but when the chance for Alworth came we couldn't pass it up."

Rentzel's trade came because Cowboys' officials felt it would be best for him and the team. Rentzel pleaded guilty to a charge of exposing himself to a 10-year-old girl last November and didn't play in the Cowboy's stretch drive to the Super Bowl.

Rentzel, 27, husband of motion picture and television personality Joey Heatherton, said: "When you think about it, I think this is the best thing for all parties. I'm grateful they traded me to an area where I have so many friends and to such a good team and a fine organization."

Rentzel caught 185 passes for 3,531 yards and 31 touchdowns in his six NFL seasons. Alworth's statistics are awesome. In nine seasons, he has caught 493 passes for 9,584 yards and 81 touchdowns.

Tidewater Nine Tea for Garman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For Mike Garman, Tidewater is just a cup of tea. The Louisville righthander scattered 10 hits Wednesday night as the Colonels took a 7-3 victory from the Tides and Garman ran his personal win streak against Tidewater to four straight over a two-year period.

In other International League action, Richmond edged Charleston 6-5, Rochester beat Toledo 8-4 and league-leading Syracuse Chiefs just kept rolling along with a 6-5 victory over Winnipeg.

Juan Beniquez gave Louisville a 3-2 lead with a solo home run in the sixth inning and the Colonels wrapped things up with a three-run seventh.

George Pena's sixth homer of the season, a solo shot in the sixth inning, propelled Syracuse past Winnipeg. The Chiefs put across five runs in the first inning after the Whips scored three runs in the top of the frame.

Pena's shot in the sixth was the decisive blow as the Whips just missed tying the game in the ninth when Red Canada was cut down at the plate as he tried to score from second on Angel Hermoso's single.

Lackaye: 2-Hitter, 15Ks

KHS Stops Rondout

KINGSTON — Rondout Valley entered Dietz Stadium Wednesday for its Ulster County Athletic League baseball game against Kingston feeling pretty good about the way things have been going for them of late. But when the afternoon was over, the Gan-KHS as the Maroons scored a solid 7-1 victory in the non-league encounter.

In the process, Lackaye fanned 15 of the hot-hitting Rondout batters and lost his shutout in the seventh inning on an unearned run.

Kingston had taken a quick three run advantage in the first when pitcher Jim Schaeffer walked Steve Van Kleeck and Jim Ferraro, and Ralph Perry singled them home. Pitcher Lackaye followed with a two-bagger for an RBI. The score remained the same until the fifth when Kingston added a run. Van Kleeck set it up again by singling, stealing second, and moving around on infield outs.

A three-run padding was tacked on in the sixth. Geanuleas' single, two walks, a fielder's choice, and a hit by Jeff Seeger did the damage. Rondout averted a blanking in the last frame as Lackaye passed two and Glen Littlefield bobbled Bruce Burr's bouncer.

Lackaye walked five to go along with the 15-K two-hit outing.

Schaeffer went the route and took the defeat for RVC. He struck out six and walked five. The Maroons try to avert a last place finish in the DUSO League today when they host Newburgh.

George Bucco of NFA threw a no-hitter yesterday as the Goldbacks beat Middletown, 4-0.

Carol Gordon Beats SHS With Love Set

OAKWOOD — Saugerties High School tennis coach Jack Welton came away from here Wednesday thoroughly impressed with a young lady. But don't worry Mrs. Welton, Oakwood's Carol Gordon won the praises of the Sawyer mentor because of her superlative net play.

Paced by Gordon's 8-0 victory over Carl Ferrono, Oakwood nipped Saugerties, 3-2, in a DCSL match. Red Hook blanked Coleman, 5-0, in another match. "This girl is really terrific," Coach Welton said after she had shutout his No. 1 man. "She's got to be the best in the league and I think the only one around here who can beat her is Zeeh (the Ulster County Community College star, late of Kingston High School)."

Saugerties still could have pulled the match out, especially

Ten Homers In Softball

A game that produces four homers, three triples and six doubles should be a high scoring affair. It was, as Bud's Submarine scored five runs in the first extra innings to outslug Born Losers, 18-14, in the Slow Pitch National Division "B" opener Tuesday.

In other action, UHL Construction topped the Alpine, 14-12; jets defeated Tony's Pizzeria, 7-4, and Gov. Clinton Market downed Village Jug, 8-4. Ten home runs were hit.

Buds collected 21 hits and Born Losers had 23. Gary Chambers slammed two homers. Dave Meeks and Dink Sugar hit one each. Gerald Barber doubled and tripled.

Gary Snyder's homer and two singles in three trips paced the Jets win, as Frank Misasi pitched a seven-hitter.

Andy Perpetua stroked two singles and a homer to lead the Clinton win over the Jug. Paul Rugi singled and homered for the losers.

Butch Zullo of Uhl's cracked three singles and a homer. Bob Gorsline hit a single, double and triple and Fred McFee three

Ferraro's Purchase Bowlero; Will Sell Mid-City Lanes

KINGSTON John S. Ferraro and his son, Jack Ferraro, have announced purchase of the 26-lane Sangi's Bowlero on Cedar Street. The amount involved in the transaction was not announced.

The Ferraro's currently operate the 52-lane Ferraro's Bowlorium on the East Chester Street By-Pass and the 14-lane Mid-City Lanes on Cornell Street.

Ferraro said the 14 lanes at Mid-City would be transferred to the Bowlero to replace older alley beds. The Mid-City property will then be put up for sale.

The transaction gives the Ferraro's monopoly on bowling lanes in the city, but the elder Ferraro moved quickly to dispel fears about the 1971-72 season.

"There will be a conflict, of course, with respect to the 7 o'clock shift next season," Ferraro pointed out. "We will naturally have to try to accommodate the oldest leagues first and then try to relocate the others on the 9 o'clock shift."

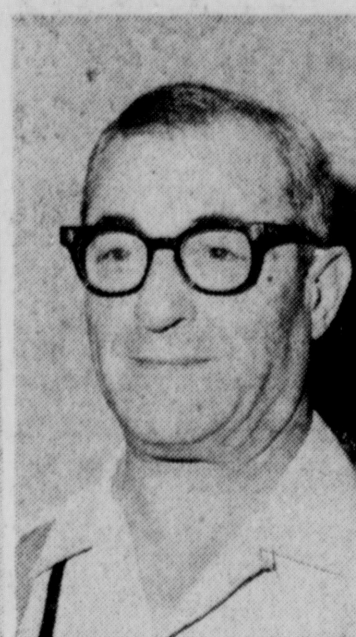

"I wish to assure the bowlers of Kingston," Ferraro added, "that we will do everything possible to make lanes available to all leagues desiring them, with a minimum of dislocation."

Ferraro also said that he plans extensive refurbishing and alterations at the Bowlero. "We have several things in mind," Ferraro said, "and we will bring the Bowlero up to the high standard of the Bowlerama."

A pioneer bowling lane operator, Ferraro opened his first establishment, the 8-lane Central Recreation on Railroad Avenue, in 1937. He joined in partnership with the late John

JACK FERRARO

JOHN S. FERRARO

S. Sangi and the Central Rec building the old Bowldrome on Cornell Street, present site of two floors.

Ferraro and Sangi dissolved Bowlero on Cedar Street in their partnership, with Ferraro 1949.

The first phase of the 52-lane Bowlero opened with 26 lanes in 1957, with an addition of 14 lanes in 1959 and 12 in 1967 to bring it to its present capacity.

In the interim, Ferraro sold the Bowldrome, but later repurchased the building and set up the present Mid-City Lanes.

The Ferraro's are now the oldest bowling proprietors in the Hudson Valley from the standpoint of continuous number of years in business. The operation of the Bowlero was taken over a few years ago by John Sangi Jr. on the death of his father.

In recent years, the Ferraro's have also devoted considerable time and money to the building of a harness racing stable. They now have five trotters and pacers and recently purchased a large tract of land on Route 32 north of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge as a stabling and breeding area.

In addition, Jack is a licensed harness driver in New York State.

State's Joe DeRosa Leads SUNY in Home Runs

ONEONTA Joe DeRosa, hard hitting catcher for New Paltz State, leads the State University Athletic Conference in home runs, according to figures released today.

DeRosa, the Hawks top batsman for the past two seasons, has boomed three roundtrippers to stay one ahead of Ed Barron of Genesee State.

New Paltz, despite a sixth place team standing, has two of the loop's top four pitchers. Oscar Kvelland is rated second in SUNYAC play with a record of 1-0, that win being his no-hitter against Potsdam. The righty fanned seven and walked four in throwing the goose eggs. His overall record for the year is 2-3.

Sandy Strauss, also 2-3 overall, is fourth in the league with a 1-1 mark. A senior, Strauss has appeared in 12 innings, allowing five runs, only one earned, and nine hits. He's struck out 10 and walked nine for a 0.73 ERA.

Don Albin of league leading Oneonta State is the No. 1 pitcher with a 3-0 record. Albin has worked 19 innings giving up two runs, one earned, and just seven hits. Don has 25 K's to his credit. He's walked four. The Oneonta star has an earned run average of 0.47.

Charlie Silverberg is New Paltz's highest ranking batter with a .350 mark, good enough for 11th place. The first baseman has seven hits in 20 times up.

Vince Schettini is 16th at .333, tied with teammate Joe Weber. DeRosa is fourth in runs batted in with seven. Schettini has six.

The team standings:

Hawks End Next Season

LOUDONVILLE

New Paltz State's tennis team closed out the 1971 season Monday with a 7-2 victory over host Siena. The Hawk netmen posted a 5-3-1 record for the season.

"We had a good year. The boys played well," said Hawk Coach Bob Durkin. "Some of these fellows will be back next year and we'll be looking to do better. Bob Heller and Mark Chalfin, the co-captains, graduate this year. They were a big help to me all season," he concluded.

Rance Porter started the visitors on the road to victory as he defeated Bill Meffier, 6-0, 5-7, 6-0. Bob Jordan then tied the match by topping Heller, 19-17, 6-2, in a marathon. Bob Weiss got the winners back on the right track, beating Jim Schock, 6-2, 6-4.

Chalfin continued the New Paltz victory run by defeating John Draxata, 7-5, 6-2. Rich Schimmel then beat Siena's Jim Karins in another marathon, 14-12, 6-3.

The host team got another point when Jim Bloomingdale beat Mike Bollini, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3. In doubles play: Porter-Heller over Meffier-Jordan, 6-3, 6-0; Schimmel-Bollini over Schock-Draxata, 6-0, 6-0; Chalfin-Weiss over Karins-Bloomingdale, 6-3, 6-3.

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens were welcomed home Wednesday by the largest crowd ever to turn out in Montreal history. An estimated 350,000-600,000 greeted the National Hockey League champions in the downtown area of the city.

KINGSTON Redeemer No. 2 squad won 6 1/2 games and lost 3 1/2 to capture the Federation Protestant Men's Club bowling title by a 6 1/2-game margin over the runnerup Albany Avenue Baptist.

Connie Roth led individual averages with 176. Koni Borst had high single (266) and Al Bruce led the triples with 667. Team scratch marks were Albany Avenue Baptist, 788, and Fair Street No. 1 (2194). The handicap marks were Clinton Avenue No. 1 (797) and Fair Street No. 2 (2153).

An OTB High

NEW YORK (AP) — A total of $268,660 was bet on the harness races at Roosevelt Raceway Wednesday night with the New York City Off-Track Betting Corp. This is the highest single night wagering on the trotters since OTB started operation April 8.

THE ROADS OF AMERICA ARE STREWN WITH BROKEN PROMISES.

At this moment about 1,800,000 cars lie abandoned in the U.S. People everywhere are throwing up their hands and walking away from cars; littering the roads with monuments to frustration.

And if you think it can't happen here, just drive around with your eyes open. You'll see. It does.

As automobile dealers, we offer a simple solution to the problem: Volvo. Volvo is built to last a long time. We can't guarantee exactly how long, but we do know that 9 out of every 10 Volvos registered here in the last eleven years are still on the road.

On. Not all over.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Seek important persons you know and gain their favor so you can get ahead faster in the future. Others who resent you can be won over by being kind and charming. Eliminate a flaw you may have in appearance.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do whatever you need to make your life more charming Dec. 21) You have such magnificent ideas now that should be jotted down for later use so that you do not forget them in the pressure of daily activity. Engage in recreational activities that increase your creativity. Happiness ahead.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

HURT: (Q.) There is this boy I go with who doesn't do anything but hold my hand or try to hurt me. He hurts my arms, hitting, twisting, etc. I would like to be friendlier with him because I love him, but if I get near him I am likely to get hurt.

Do you think he likes me, too? I don't want to break up with him. I am 13, he is 14—Bruised in Philadelphia.

(A.) A boy who has to physically hurt his girl friend needs help that you cannot give him. For your own safety, you should leave him and find a boy who will treat you with kindness. Leave him now, without delay.

RUDENESS: (Q.) My family has moved to a new part of our city and there are a lot of Negroes in my school. They are rude to the teachers and to non-Negro students, including me.

I am afraid to say anything to them about it. I haven't talked to anyone about it. Not even my mother. She thinks I like my new school.

What should I do?—Surprised in Nebraska.

(A.) Talk with your parents about the things that happen at school. Talk with your guidance counselor, too. If possible, get your parents to talk with the counselor or the principal.

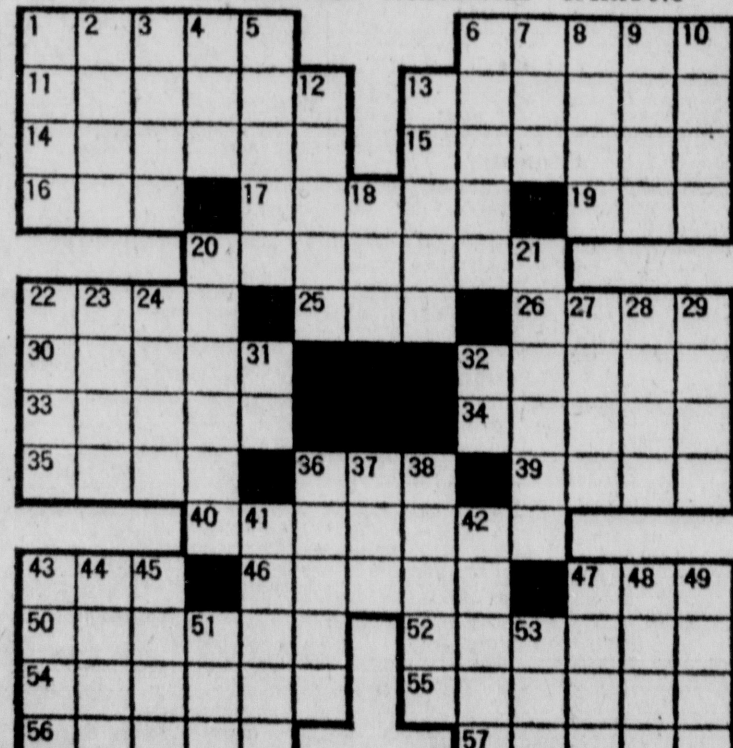

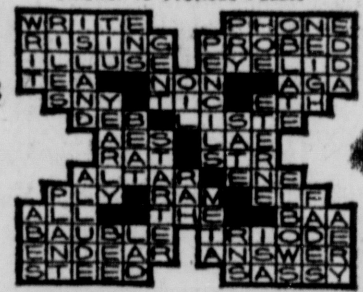

This will not be spying or tattling. It will be reporting conditions that need to be more clearly known. Only by knowing the facts can a school administration function well. In class try to be an example of politeness to your teachers and of consideration for your fellow students, both black and white. People learn to do the right thing by seeing others do it.

A Glorified Sing-Along

NEW YORK (AP) — Tennessee Ernie Ford, who looks like a city slicker and talks country-style, came along Wednesday night with an hour of variety mixing urban sophistication and rural corn.

The NBC special, called "Sing America Beautiful," was a sort of glorified sing-along as the studio audience joined in on some familiar tunes. Just about all the music was as familiar as the opening production number, "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee."

The comedy-jokes by Ernie and guest star Danny Thomas—was on the level of "Hee Haw." Then Diahann Carroll came along and stole the show with her version of "Danny Boy" and "76 Trombones."

Tom and Dick Smothers had a short turn with a little singing and a lot of their usual wrangling.

The show was pretty much of a hodge-podge, and there were uncomfortable moments when things were pretty saccharine, but its intentions were good.

The Public Broadcasting stations had a study of the families of three young people who died violently last year. "Part of the Family" opened showing the family life of the Italian-American family of a 20-year-old Marine who died in Vietnam. Then there was the wife, infant and sister of 22-year-old Philip Gibbs, a black man shot during disturbances at Jackson State University in Mississippi. And then there were the parents of Allison Krause, who died in the Kent State troubles.

The cameras went into the homes of the bereaved families, and also to the graveyards. The parents and other relatives spoke sadly of the loss of the loved ones. It somehow missed being the powerful preachment that, obviously, it was intended to be. Occasionally it seemed to have invaded—however gently areas in the lives of the sorrow and sympathetically—private areas in the lives of the sorrowing survivors.

The word out of Hollywood is that guest stars will be paid $20,000 to $25,000.

Allies Battling Foe Close to the Capital

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces smashed into North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops only 25 miles from Saigon, battled the enemy at four points around the A Shau valley and shelled it out on two sides of the U Minh forest in the Mekong Delta.

Communiques said 79 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were killed in seven clashes Wednesday. Field reports and communiques said 22 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 47 were wounded. The only U.S. casualties reported were six men wounded.

The U.S. Command also reported that 24 American servicemen were killed in combat last week, 27 died from nonhostile causes and 240 were wounded. It was the lowest toll of battle dead in three months and the first time in five months that nonhostile deaths exceeded those in combat. South Vietnamese headquarters reported 280 government troops killed last week, while the allied commands claimed 1,400 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

It was the second successive day of stepped up fighting in South Vietnam.

A U.S. armored column protecting bulldozers ripping through enemy base camps 25 miles northwest of Saigon ran into 100 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops. U.S. fighters, bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery pounded the enemy while the American ground forces held back to keep casualties down.

The U.S. Command said six Americans were wounded, one armored personnel carrier was destroyed and two bulldozers were damaged. Enemy losses were not known.

A U.S. bulldozer operation has been under way in the region since April 1 to clear the Boi Loi woods so the enemy cannot use them for hideouts and storage areas. Seven American and more than 60 enemy troops have been reported killed, about 100 Americans have been wounded, and numerous bulldozers, tanks and armored personnel carriers have been knocked out. The area is thick with mines and booby traps.

The South Vietnamese suffered their heaviest losses Wednesday—17 killed and 12 wounded—in a battle east of the U Minh forest, about 125 miles southwest of Saigon. But Saigon reported 40 of the enemy killed with the help of air and artillery strikes.

In the northern part of the U Minh, other South Vietnamese infantrymen killed 11 enemy soldiers while only four of their own men were wounded, field reports said.

Twenty-eight North Vietnamese troops were reported killed in four clashes with South Vietnamese on the mountain slopes around the northern end of the A Shau valley, one of the major enemy supply and base areas in the northern provinces.

Field reports said five South Vietnamese were killed and 31 wounded in the action near the Laotian border about 375 miles north of Saigon.

The U.S. Command said a UH1 helicopter was shot down on the eastern edge of the valley Sunday, and the four crewmen are missing.

Repeated government attempts have failed to keep open Highway 4, the shortest and best road to the seaport of Kompong Som. Now the army is trying to reopen the longer route via Highway 3, which runs from Phnom Penh south to Kampot and then west along the Gulf of Siam to Kompong Som, Cambodia's deep-water port.

Meanwhile, in Paris the 114th session of the Vietnam peace talks was put off today until next week to allow the French government employees at the conference center to take a holiday along with most of their countrymen.

Ascension Day, a Roman Catholic observance, is a holiday in most businesses in France. Banks and markets also are closed.

The four parties to the conference—the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong—have agreed to meet next Thursday, May 27.

Bella's Help Even Too Much for Doves

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats trying to put a termination date on U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War are getting more help than they want from Rep. Bella S. Abzug.

To the dismay of other anti-war Democrats, Mrs. Abzug, D-N.Y., is leading a fight to make the Democratic Caucus vote on a resolution calling for withdrawal of U.S. troops from Indochina by Dec. 31.

Congressional courtesy, but dressed no doubt by justifiable fears of her sharp tongue, deters antiwar members from commenting publicly on her latest effort. But their private comments make it clear they feel she is doing them more harm than good.

It's hard to say which annoys her colleagues more, the fact she is making the fight or leading it. There is a widespread feeling among them that no good can come from pressing the fight in the caucus and that disaster can only result from her leadership.

The antiwar movement in the House has been gaining steadily due largely to quiet, patient, behind-the-scenes lobbying by respected members and outside peace groups. To such tactics, Bella, as everyone calls her, is a stranger.

With the quiet patience of a bulldozer she has shattered the traditional image of a freshman member of Congress and emerged in five short months as a highly vocal, voluble, larger-than-life champion of the peace movement and all who join it.

When Bella disclosed her intention to present her resolution to the monthly Democratic Caucus Wednesday, members who had sponsored a similar effort two months ago and were casting about cautiously for a follow-up move tried to dissuade her.

The earlier effort ended with a compromise supporting withdrawal by Dec. 31, 1972, after the original proposal was defeated 101 to 100. No one was particularly happy or unhappy with the outcome but most were content to let the matter lie.

Not Bella. In the intervening months eight members who voted with the 101 have switched to support a Dec. 31, withdrawal and 13 who were absent have pledged support. The chances are good the caucus would adopt the original resolution now and Bella wants to find out.

Unable to persuade her to back down, the Democrats stayed away from Wednesday's caucus in droves, depriving it of a quorum and forcing adjournment before any action was taken. This probably will happen as long as Bella persists.

Euromart Future One of the Topics

PARIS (AP) — President Georges Pompidou and Prime Minister Edward Heath met today in an attempt to revive the old British-French alliance so France won't again, veto Britain's application to join the European Common Market.

The success of their talks depended largely on the ability of the two leaders to align their policies toward the United States and West Germany. To win Pompidou's backing, Heath had to convince his host that Britain's cooperation with the Americans and Germans would never be at France's expense.

In nearly seven hours of discussions today and Friday, the two men were to range over the affairs of Western Europe and its role in the world, the progress of the Brussels negotiations to enlarge the six-nation Common Market, and the long-term political, monetary and economic implications of enlarging the European Economic Community.

Pompidou and Heath grouped their talks around three main themes:

—The sort of Europe they want: This takes in the role a united Western Europe should seek to play in the Middle East, Asia, Africa, toward the Communist powers and so on. It also includes the defense system Europeans should work toward, bearing in mind mounting pressures for reduction in American forces abroad.

—The state of the Brussels negotiations on British admission to the Common Market: This means examining the remaining disagreements. A compromise is expected over the money Britain must contribute to the economic community's coffers. It also means arguing about Britain's promise to safeguard the economy of New Zealand, which would go broke if it were to lose its special access to the British market for its meat and dairy products.
